HOUSEWORK

Too much housework wrecks women's nerves. And the constant care of children, day and night, is often too trying for even a strong woman. A haggard face tells the story of the overworked housewife and mother. Deranged menses, leucorrhœa and falling of the womb result from overwork. Every housewife needs a remedy to regulate her menses and to keep her sensitive female organs in perfect condition.

WINE OF CARDUI

is doing this for thousands of American women to-day. It cured Mrs. Jones and that is why she writes this frank letter:

Glendeane, Ky., Feb. 10, 1901.
I am so glad that your Wine of Cardui is helping me. I am feeling better than I have felt for years. I am doing my own work without any help, and I washed last week and was not one bit tired. That shows that the Wine is doing me good. I am getting fleshier than I ever was before, and sleep good and eat hearty. Before I began taking Wine of Cardui, I used to have to lay down five or six times every day, but now I do not think of lying down through the day. MRS. RICHARD JONES.

Drying preparations simply develop dry catarrh; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumes, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. A trial size will be mailed for 10 cents. All druggists sell the 50c. size. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N.Y.

The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation.

With Ely's Cream Balm you are armed against Nasal Catarrh and Hay Fever.

Told In a Country Store

What the country store man cannot tell you of every passerby and every customer you are not likely to learn yourself.

That was what I was thinking as I sat in Bijah's store, with the mingled odors of calico print and dried apples, coffee and the straw that crockery is packed in fighting for supremacy in my notice.

Bijah's broad back was turned to me, and he was sorting the day's mail with comments that made me as wise as himself regarding its contents.

"Mis' Mi-randy Beal," said Bijah. "That'll be abaout her pension, I guess. Ruther official lookin', that is. Mr. Asy Fowler. His son John—gone down to Pochemouth—he writes ter him nigh onter every week, an' a nice, clean hand he writes, does John. Here's a letter fur th' schulema'am. Now, there's han'writin' fer ye! Putty as she is an' jest as simple like."

The latch clicked, and the door opened. Bijah looked over his shoulder and grinned. I was shut out from sight of more than the visitor's legs by a slack line of dangling towels, aprons and socks, but they were steady, reliable looking legs, straight and strong, clothed in heavy boots and blue overalls.

Bijah neither turned nor laid down his letters. He stood there grinning, and whether the person in the doorway was grinning also or plotting my assassination in pantomime I was none the wiser.

The heavy boots shuffled and turned about, stepped outside, and the door shut. Bijah chuckled to himself and looked back to his letters again.

"Them papers is fur young Thompson. He's th' editor uv our paper. He's alive—alive an' kickin'. He's been out west fur a spell, an', he thinks we're all dead an' buried. An' he has made a great change in th' Bugler, I tell ye. Folks say he'll be made ter smart fur the way he musses raound inter people's affairs; but it's lively, it's lively."

The papers went into a separate box, and Bijah resumed the letters.

"Mehaly Hopkins, she's got a heap uv money. 'Mazin' haow fond yer folks is uv ye when yer got a pile an' ain't no heirs uv yer buddy. She's good fur 'em, though. She's a cute un."

"I suppose it is unusual for any one to make much more than his living anyway up here, isn't it, Bijah?"

"Humph! Yes, fur any one, not fur some on 'em, though. Some on 'em is smarter'n greased lightnin'."

He put his head on one side and squinted at the letter he was holding.

"Him, now, Jeremiah Wilson, he's a keen un. Nobody ever got th' best uv th' ole man but Jim. Ye saw Jim—come in here jest naow. Ain't no tater bugs on Jim. When he gits up, he's up fur all day."

Bijah grinned and wagged his head.

"Jere-miah — Wil-son!" he remarked and slapped the letter into its pigeonhole.

The latch clicked again, the door opened, and the same pair of legs appeared in the very same spot where I had seen them before.

Bijah grinned.

Presumably the unseen grinned also, for there was too much of Bijah's grin not to be offensive, if it were otherwise.

"What ye want?"

"Nothin'."

"We don't keep that, or ef we do we're jest aout uv it."

The big boots turned about slowly.

"Sure ye don't want no lamps, are ye?"

"Gals go with 'em?"

"Not in this shop."

"That settles it as fur as I'm concerned." And he went away and closed the door again.

Bijah looked after him and chuckled.

"What's the joke, Bijah?"

"Don't know as I'd orter say an'thing aoutside, but ye know how it is, Mr. Carson. Ye never seem no stranger."

"Hand over your story, you old gossip," I answered. "Why, it would burn your tongue off if you tried to keep it in."

Bijah laughed heartily at this polite sally.

"Well, I take fur my tex', as Elder Slocum says, that beautiful axum, 'All is fair in love an' war.'"

He came around the end of the counter and sat on an unopened sugar barrel, with his legs crossed and his rough hands clasped around his knee.

"Th' ole man, Jeremiah Wilson, that I mentioned back a spell, he's a Tartar. He don't know nothin' but his own way, an' Mis' Wilson, she never know'd nothin' but ter gin it ter him. He's got a trick uv turnin' red faced an' lookin' like he was a-goin' ter bust, an' Mis' Wilson, she was so neat she couldn't bear ter hev her house mussed, so she jest gin in ter him.

"There was one gal—Mame her name was—an' they both thought a sight uv her. She wa'n't no more like neither uv them than nothin' at all, an' they both tried projecks with her.

"Her father wanted her ter be a boy, an' he allus felt as ef she done him when she wa'n't. He wanted ter make a lawyer out uv her. He's dead in love with lawin', ole man Wilson is. But ye might better try ter make a hossrake out uv whalebones an' gristle as ter make a lawyer outer Mame. What th' ole man said was gospel, though. She felt sorter like she better not make him no more hard feelin' after not bein' that boy he wanted.

"Her mother meant her ter be a good housekeeper an' put up p'serves an' make pickles, an' Mame would stan' at th' winder an' sing an' furgit all abaout her mess till 'twas clean spilt.

"After Mis' Wilson died, though, Mame done better raound th' haouse. Mebbe ef th' ole man was ter die she'd take ter lawin'. Ye can't tell. She kin do most an'thing.

"Jest abaout then Jim Lane began ter sleeve raound with Mame Wilson. Smart as a steel trap he is. He runs th' sawmill up th' creek. But th' ole man hates him like pizen, an' he talked ter Mame till she 'lowed she wouldn't take up with Jim 'less he was willin'.

"Jim Lane is th' darnedest good natured feller ye ever see. He's allus got a good word an' a pleasant smile fur folks, an' he'll go further out uv his track fur a friend than most anybuddy I know.

"He took it offul hard abaout Mame, an' he reg'ly got mopy an' down in th' mouth abaout it. An' then he got his second wind, an' he tried every witch way ter play it on th' ole man. But Mame, she got putty stuffy, too, an' she declared she'd never 'pose her father, an' there 'twas."

Bijah got off the barrel to sell a couple of candy balls to a rosy faced little lass who was so short as to be visible under the slack line and resumed as she closed the door of the shop.

"Th' hull village knew all abaout it, an' they talked it up early an' late. Th' gals, they wasn't slow ter say what they'd do ef they was in her place, an' th' Bugler took a hand, so ter speak, an' nearly drove th' ole man wild. But Miss Peterson, th' minister's sister, she 'lowed that Mame was right ter mind her father.

"'Look a-here,' says Jim, 'ain't I got no rights at all?' an' Miss Peterson, she laughed an' said she s'posed so, but he certainly didn't orter ask Mame ter take th' responsibility uv breakin' her word."

Bijah chuckled and changed his legs and clasped the other knee.

"'Twasn't very long after that ole Wilson went home one night. 'Twas gettin' early dusk, an' he tole Mame she'd better get th' lamp afore she set down ter tea. Mame was a-goin' through th' entryway with a whoppin' great shade lamp in her hand when somebody knocked ter th' front door, an' she jest stopped an' opened it without thinkin'.

"Jim Lane was a-standin' there. 'Don't say nothin', Mame,' says he, an' he takes her bodily, lamp an' all, an' tucks her inter a carridge that he had at th' gate. He didn't fool raound with no railroad train, but jest turned them horses' heads fur Canada, an' when they got ter th' line Mame was a-settin' there as still as a mouse without ary hat er coat, an' that big shade lamp a-burnin' jest as peart as ef it was on th' ole man Wilson's table ter home."

Bijah spat at the stove and laughed to himself.

"Fearful thing, th' ingratitoode av children, ain't it? But ye'd orter seen th' Bugler nex' mornin'. Every dad blamed colume in it had a big headline: 'Jim Lane Has Got His Gal.' 'Jim Lane Has Got His Gal.' Gosh, that jest proved ole Wilson wouldn't never hev busted when he didn't bust that mornin'.

"He went whoopin' off ter his lawyer ter see what he cud do ter Jim, but Mame, she was uv age, an' she writ him that she went uv her own free will; so all he cud make any fuss abaout was th' lamp, an' they've been a-lawin' an' foolin' an' a-arbitratin' ever since."

Self Murder In Hot Weather.

It has long been a matter of observation that a protracted hot spell is always marked by many suicides. The vital forces run low in hot weather, the brain is frequently affected by the heat, physical weakness and prostration are common and life loses many of its attractions. The result is an increase of suicide, which diminishes as the temperature falls, the atmosphere becomes purified and vitality, energy and ambition return.

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the chain of life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of heart or lungs, liver or kidneys, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

"I was in poor health when I commenced taking Doctor Pierce's medicines," writes Mr. Elmer Lawler, of Volga, Jefferson Co., Ind. "I had stomach, kidney, heart, and lung troubles. Was not able to do any work. I had a severe cough and hemorrhage of the lungs, but after using your medicine a while I commenced to gain in strength and flesh, and stopped coughing right away. Took about six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I feel like a different person. I gladly recommend your medicine to all sufferers, for I know it cured me."

The use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will cure that foul breath.

SONOMA, AUGUST 23, 1902.

H. H. GRANICE - - - - - - - - - - - EDITOR

THE Republican State convention meets at Sacramento on Monday, August 25th.

WE are not sorry we have deprived Station Agent Reed of making some easy money out of politics this campaign. He is receiving a good salary from the railway people and ought not to get mad because he has been retired from politics.

THE Cloverdale Reveille, which has passed into the hands of Clayton T. Coffey, shows the impress of the new owner in a typographical improvement. Mr. Coffey was at one time the editor and publisher of the Newcastle News in Placer county, and for a number of years was connected with the mechanical department of the San Jose Mercury.

THERE is much worry among the fruit growers over the very low prices to be obtained for their crop. All kinds of fruit have borne heavily, as a rule, and where the fruit was not judiciously thinned much of it was too small to find a market at the canneries, which naturally desire the best. Prices are consequently low and growers are compelled to cut and cure the fruit or allow it go to waste. In some instances the prices offered per ton are so low that it does not pay to pick the crop and the fruit is being fed to the hogs.

G. W. REED, the political station agent, seeing that he and his Republican club had been utterly repudiated at the polls by the Republican voters of Sonoma, makes an attack in the Santa Rosa Republican against the editor of this paper. Reed, of course, don't like the INDEX-TRIBUNE, because it nipped in the bud his little game to run a Republican club in this town for the purpose of pulling the legs of candidates. The most ridiculous thing about Reed's card is that he publishes it after the defeat of his ticket in the primary election last Monday. We might here add that no man is more thoroughly detested in Sonoma than he is. A canvass of the town will prove this.

THE University of California has announced a short course in agriculture and horticulture, for practical farmers who wish to learn about the best modern methods and then return to the ranch to apply them. A ten-weeks course to extend from Tuesday, October 7th, to Thursday, December 18th, and also embracing a short course in dairying, is open without examination to anyone 17 years of age or over, provided only that the applicant shall have had sufficient schooling to profit by instruction. Preference will be given to those experienced in farm work, as the number of students will be limited by the accommodations. Nor charge will be made for tuition and only for those who wish laboratory work in butter and cheese will there be any laboratory fee. The only expense will be for board and lodging, which may be had at private houses in Berkeley for from $18 to $30 a month, and for books and class-room material. All the resources of this splendid University will be at the disposal of the students. Edward J. Wickson, Professor of Agricultural Practice, is in charge of the short course. Any desired information may be obtained by addressing him at Berkeley.

Every man should try to find out what people think of him and his store. The best way would be to go to some woman friend and ask her for a frank criticism of the store and its advertising. Women like to criticise anything and everything, from a new bonnet to a political speech, and they are usually only too happy to give an opinion of any store and its advertising. Most women are entirely too sensitive about adverse criticism. Perhaps out of ten suggestions, one might be found that would be valuable.

A WORSTED WOULD-BE LEADER

Reed and His Republican Club Repudiated at the Polls

The Republicans of Sonoma administered a stinging rebuke to G. W. Reed and his so-called Republican club at the primary election last Monday. This political railway employe had the temerity to assume to run Republican politics in this town by a code of ethics peculiarly his own, and the result is that he and his reputed Republican club have been consigned to political oblivion.

A few evenings before the primary election this would-be political boss got a few of his henchmen together and held a meeting. There were fourteen present all told. About half of these were innocent parties to the deal. Reed, after calling his "club" to order, arbitrarily took it upon himself to foist the following ticket upon the voters for delegates to the county convention:

1. J. E. Poppe.
2. A. Pinelli.
3. S. A. Ringstrom.
4. Dr. H. W. Gottenberg.

Having usurped all the functions of the "club," he then presented his ticket to the Republican voters for their suffrages. They would have none of it, however, and his candidates, every one of them, were defeated.

In opposition to the defeated ones the following ticket was put up and won out with handsome majorities:

Dr. G. D. Rich.
G. S. Harris.
S. Ciucci.
Skelton Glaister.

The contest was one of the most stubbornly contested political battles ever waged in this town and that little hole that Station Agent Reed had prepared for Granice has disappeared, for Reed crawled into it immediately after the result was made known and pulled the hole in after him. Sonoma will hear very little hereafter of this political failure and promoter of discord in local Republican politics.

Hoist on His Own Petard.

Another point against Reed, the political station agent at this place, is this: J. B. Morris of Agua Caliente, a Vice-President of the so-called Republican club of this place and Station Agent Reed's candidate for a delegate to the county convention in that precinct, was defeated by William B. Read, but no relative and a better principled man in every way than the would-be boss of the same name. The political station agent circulated the false report that "Granice had put up Bill Read against Mr. Morris," and as a matter of course Mr. Read of Caliente was easily elected. The report circulated by the political station agent was a lie manufactured out of whole cloth, for Granice had nothing to do with Mr. Read's candidacy. He neither opposed or favored him. The false report, however, had a different effect on the voters of Agua Caliente than the political station agent boss calculated on, and Granice's friends rushed to old Bill Read's rescue and he was elected.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. A Mistake Corrected

PETALUMA GAS AND ELECTRIC CO., Petaluma, Cal., August 19, 1902.

SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE, Sonoma, Cal.—To the Editor: The other day an article printed in your paper was called to my attention, referring to electric lighting. On behalf of the Electric Power Company, whom I represent as manager at Petaluma, I desire to make the following in correction of a subject upon which you have been grossly misinformed.

Electricity supplied for lighting purposes as well as power is being sold much cheaper here and in other vicinities than it was formerly by the old companies who were supplying it. The article in your paper states that you know of one private residence in the city of Petaluma that is paying $8 per month for ten 16-candle power lamps. We have no such residence customer on our books. If you had said that you knew of a store that was paying that much, it would have been different. You also stated that the charge was excessive and th customer complained and finally discontinued his service. We know of no parties burning this amount of light who have discontinued their service. In fact, in this town the lighting business has been increased one-third to what it was a year ago. In every other town that this company operates in the same results have been obtained. With this I am sending you a copy of our rates, which shows clearly that the thing has been misrepresented to you. We are sorry that has been the case and of course we always like to rectify mistakes of this sort.

In residences we charge a flat rate of 25c per lamp and give a day and night service in the bargain. In stores, for commercial lighting we charge a flat rate of 60c per light for anything over five lights, or sell current on a meter for 10c per 1000 watts.

Hoping that you will set us right in this matter and that you may devote to us a little space in your paper for the same, I beg to remain, respectfully yours,

JAS B. BURDELL,
Mgr. Petaluma Gas and Electric Co.

In this case the types made us say $8 instead of $5 and we stand corrected. The object of the article was not to prove that the big powers company was charging too much for the service, but to show that in comparison our local electric light company's rates would compare favorably with Mr. Burdell's company.

EARTHQUAKE OF LAST WEEK

Checked Flow of Hot Water in Boyes' Springs

The earthquake of last week, which was a very slight one in so far as the vibrations were concerned, created a crack in the earth at Boyes' Hot Springs, and the fine flowing well has ceased to flow. In consequence the celebrated baths have been closed down for a week. In the meantime, at a cost of $1000, Captain Boyes has erected a gasoline pumping plant and bored a 10-inch well. This new well has developed a wonderful supply of hot water, but unlike the old well is not a flowing well. The hot water, however, rises to within a few feet of the surface and will be pumped into the bath houses.

These famous baths will again be thrown open to the public next week. Over 150 summer visitors left the various resorts in this valley last week, owing to the closing of the baths, but others will take their places the coming week.

SCHELLVILLE SIFTINGS.

Mrs. S. E. Latta spent the fore part of the week in Stockton.

Mrs. Martha H. White and Mrs. McFarlane of Chicago are visiting friends in this place.

Mrs. Paulina W. Dorhman of Stockton visited the Burketts on Thursday and Friday of last week.

There was a hot contest in this precinct last Monday for delegate to the Republican convention between Charles Potter and Dougald McKillop. Each received one vote and was counted out.

SUNRISE.

Scrofula

Few are entirely free from it.

It may develop so slowly as to cause little if any disturbance during the whole period of childhood.

It may then produce irregularity of the stomach and bowels, dyspepsia, catarrh, and marked tendency to consumption before you realize that you have cutaneous eruption or glandular swelling.

If this is your condition, or if you are quite free from it, now is the time to purify your blood and prevent it.

Glen Ellen News Items

Mrs. A. F. Sullivan and Miss Mae Sullivan, also Mrs. Trirsen, all of San Francisco, are registered at the Mervyn.

Mr. A. Lawrence, a prominent druggist of San Francisco, is rusticating at Glen Ellen, with headquarters at the Mervyn.

Boys, remember the dance at Mervyn Hall Saturday night. The music by Prof. Schieck and D'Arcy's orchestra. You can just count on a good time.

The merry ringing of the school bell is heard here daily now. Miss Lottie Howard is the popular teacher. Pretty, witty and sparkling—adored by all the children—she rules through love.

Lost, strayed or stolen, from our quiet burg—a nice young man. He left here a week ago to visit the Knights of Pythias. The town is terribly exercised at his long absence and it is feared the Rathbone Sisters have gathered him up and carried him off to their wigwams in the East. A suitable reward will be given for his safe return to his vine clad castle on the hill.

The Republicans of Glen Ellen district met in Mervyn Hall Thursday of last week to name delegates to be voted for at the primary election for the county and State conventions. They had quite a lively time. As usual a lot of Democrats crawled out of their holes to vote the ticket they are trying to defeat on election day, and returned to their mountain fastnesses in the evening in a very merry mood. The fortunate delegates elected to go to the county convention are Mr. Gaige, Mr. Zane and Harry Weise. For the State convention Robert Poppe of Sonoma and Mr. Wagner of Sonoma were chosen. I am just aching to be a voter and can hardly wait for the time to come. I am afraid Teddy will have to get along without my help next year, though after that I am with him.

Hurrah for Glen Ellen! Three cheers and a tiger! Who says we are not going to be a boom town, with such a hustler in our midst as Mr. Ely, the enterprising superintendent of the Glen Ellen coal mine? He has discovered the finest kind of clay for the manufacture of brick and terra cotta, and off he goes and has negotiated for a brick plant worth $50,000, and in less than a month will have from forty to fifty men employed in this new industry, which will be run in connection with the coal mine. Mr. Ely is a rustler—he is. He will put new life into our quiet town and make these old fogies around here rub up their wits and put on their thinking caps. Mr. Hampton, one of the owners of the coal mine, spent several days here recently, and from the contented and satisfied look on his face one could not doubt but that he was well pleased and everything going on satisfactorily.

CHAPPIE.

Glen Ellen, August 21, 1902.

Allen Bryant Injured

Allen Bryant of Santa Rosa is suffering from the effects of a severe accident. His face is partially covered by strips of adhesive plaster and he walks very painfully even with the aid of a cane.

Mr. Bryant's injuries are due to the hack passing over his body. His back is sprained and his left leg is badly injured in addition to his facial cuts and bruises. In attempting to mount to the driver's box on the back, Mr. Bryant's foot slipped and the horses started unexpectedly. He was thrown to the ground and the heavy vehicle passed over his body. One wheel rested on his left leg above the knee. The prostrate man held the reins in his hand and he called to the horses to move forward, which they did, thus liberating him. When he fell his back struck the sidewalk curbing, producing injuries from which he suffers very keenly. Mr. Bryant has many friends in this place, where he resided for a number of years, being the United States Bonded Warehouse keeper from 1880 to 1888.

A YOUNG LADY'S LIFE SAVED

At Panama, Colombia, by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy.

Dr. Charles H. Utter, a prominent physician of Panama, Colombia, in a recent letter states: "Last March I had as a patient a young lady sixteen years of age, who had a very bad attack of dysentery. Everything I prescribed for her proved ineffectual and she was growing worse every hour. Her parents were sure she would die. She had become so weak that she could not turn over in bed. What to do at this critical moment was a study for me, but I thought of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy and as a last resort prescribed it. The most wonderful result was effected. Within eight hours she was feeling much better. Inside of three days she was upon her feet and at the end of one week was entirely well."

Hale's
GOOD GOODS.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Grace were presented with a beautiful wedding present—a Turkish easy chair. Mr. Grace's deputies were the givers.

"It's a bad time to swap horses when you are crossing a stream."

That was Lincoln's famous reply to those who urged him to make a change in generals at a critical period of the Civil war.

Lincoln's saying is worth remembering, especially when you are asked to "swap" Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for a bootless bargain, described as "just as good," at the critical time when health is at stake.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a medicine which has a record of ninety-eight per cent. of cures. It is an absolutely reliable family medicine, non-alcoholic and non-narcotic. It always helps; it almost always cures. Why should any one who is seeking a cure for sickness, and is persuaded that the "Discovery" will cure him, "swap" the substance for the shadow at the risk of health?

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. What is popularly termed "weak" stomach is the common cause of various forms of physical weakness,—such as "weak" heart, "weak" lungs, "weak" or sluggish liver, "weak" nerves, etc. The entire body and its several organs are dependent for strength upon the food prepared in the stomach. The "weak" stomach cannot provide the food-strength for the various organs, which in their turn become "weak" and unable to accomplish the work for which they were designed. "Golden Medical Discovery" cures through the stomach diseases which have their cause in a diseased condition of the stomach and the allied organs of digestion and nutrition.

It enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food by which the body is built up into a condition of sound health. It purifies the blood, driving out the poisons which breed and feed disease.

Preferred to Die.

"Have taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and it did me more good than anything I could get," writes Mrs. Julia A. Wilcox, of Cygnet, Wood Co., Ohio, Box 25. "I doctored with three different doctors for weak heart, but they did me no good. I was so tired and discouraged if I had had my choice to live or die I would have prefered to die. My husband heard of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and he bought me a bottle. I took that and the first half seemed to help me. I took six bottles before I stopped. I am perfectly well and am cooking for boarders (I have six), and am taking in washing besides. I will truly say I think your medicine will do all it is recommended to do, and more. It has been a God-send to me. I will be willing to answer any letters of inquiry that any one wishes me to. If you think this will be the means of helping any poor suffering woman to obtain relief you may use it and make any honest use of it you wish to."

Was Bedfast.

"I had been sick for more than a year with kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Lucy Hayter, of Jacksboro, Jack Co., Texas. "Several different doctors treated me, but none did me any good. One doctor said I never could be cured, that I had Bright's Disease. I suffered nearly death at times; had spells the doctor called spasms. Was bedfast most of the time for six months. My mother begged me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. With but little hope I wrote to Dr. Pierce and he said he could cure me. I began to take his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and although I had given up to die, I began to improve from the start, and by the time I had taken twenty-two bottles I was entirely cured. I thank God for the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I weigh more than ever before in my life, and believe I am entirely well."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, containing 1008 pages, and over 700 illustrations, is sent free on receipt of stamps to defray expense of mailing only. CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.

The Events That Led One Man to Regard It With Suspicion.

"As to circumstantial evidence, it's a queer thing," said the man in the brown suit. "Five or six years ago I was in a certain town for a night when a bank was robbed. Next morning I was arrested as an accomplice, it being contended that I was seen idling in front of the bank and evidently acting as sentinel to those within. Three different persons identified me as the man, and a fourth claimed to have seen me enter the hotel at a late hour by way of a shed and a window. I was locked up for examination, with a chance of things going hard with me, when evidence began to come forward on my side. The landlord asserted and swore that I was sitting in the office at 10 o'clock p. m. Two servants swore they saw me going to my room half an hour later. A man having rooms opposite the hotel swore that he saw me smoking at my window at midnight. A guest of the hotel who had a room next to mine swore that my snores disturbed him from midnight till 2 o'clock and that he heard me turn over in bed at 3, and so I was honorably discharged from custody."

"But about its being queer?" was asked.

"Why, all the people on both sides were mistaken. I was not outside the bank at the time named, and neither was I in the hotel."

"But you were somewhere?"

"Oh, of course. Fact is, I got mashed on the landlord's daughter, and we sat up all night on a balcony and talked love and looked at the moonlight—yes, sir, sat there all night like a couple of idiots, and though I declared I would die for her and she said she only wanted me and a humble cottage, she was married to a red haired butcher within a year and I was being sued by a snub nosed widow for a breach of promise. I was simply observing, you know, that circumstantial evidence is a queer thing, and I wish to add that a juryman should not be influenced too much by it."
—Pearson's Weekly.

Remarkable Ideas of Beauty.

It is remarkable to learn the extraordinary ideas of female beauty which characterize different nations. The ladies of Arabia stain their fingers and toes red, their eyebrows black and their lips blue. In Persia they paint a black streak around their eyes and ornament their faces with representations of various figures.

The Japanese women adopt the singular method of gilding their teeth, and those of the Indian paint them red. In some parts of India the pearl of the tooth must be dyed black before a woman can be beautiful. The Hottentot women paint the entire body in compartments of red and black.

Spurgeon's Forcible Way.

Spurgeon sometimes carried dramatic action to a ludicrous excess in the pulpit. Mr. Haweis says that once in the middle of his sermon the preacher shouted out: "What's that thee says, Paul, 'I can do all things?' I'll bet thee half a crown o' that." So the preacher took out half a crown and put it on the Bible. "However," he continued, "let's see what the apostle has to say for himself." So he read on, "'Through Christ that strengtheneth me.' Oh, says he, "if that's the terms of the bet I'm off!" And he put the half crown back into his pocket.

MATRIMONIAL MISFITS.

The Knots That Are Tied For Worse, Not For Better.

Nothing is more beautiful than the old age of a man and wife who have grown dear to each other by the manifold experiences of life. So nothing is more grim and hideous than such an old age when the long years have heaped up bitterness and discord only. In many a country household, where wife beating would be regarded with horror, there is practiced a cruelty no less terrible and even more persistent.

An old couple who had been married fifty years finally separated because the man wanted a half bushel of ashes on the hearth and his wife wanted only a peck. They had argued the question unremittingly and savagely for forty-nine years and at last ended the bitter sport by a stormy parting.

There is a grim humor in many of the countryman's expressions of his domestic irritation and discomfort, but they are none the less significant of untold suffering.

One night a country doctor was detained at a farmhouse where husband and wife were notoriously incompatible. From the "kitchen bedroom" where he was installed he was forced to hear every word of a tirade which the woman poured upon the head of her husband. The victim bore it without a word. At last, the doctor relates, the farmer rose to go to the barn for his nightly visit to "the critters." With his hand on the latch of the door he flung back over his shoulder, "Waal, Sairey, there's that in ye that nothin' but the ground'll ever take out!"

An old blacksmith drove home from the funeral of his wife with a lifelong friend. As they rode slowly through a winter twilight the widower half soliloquized: "She was a good cook an' a first rate housekeeper. She was savin'. She allers kep' me mended up. But I never liked her!"

The grotesqueness of the incidents does not conceal their tragedy. That might be made the text of a sermon on self control, cheerfulness, lovingness and the other homely, useful domestic virtues. These same virtues must be planted and cultivated in the boy and the girl if marriage is to be aught but an intolerable slavery for the man and the woman.—Youth's Companion.

An American War of One Battle.

In the annals of the American navy no achievement of a single commander in a single ship surpasses that of David McDougal in the Wyoming at Simonoseki. Happening on the other side of the globe during our civil war this daring exploit passed unnoticed at the time.

Briefly told, the story is this: A sloop of war of six guns, in a narrow strait, engaged during seventy minutes a force of seven batteries mounting thirty heavy guns and three men-of-war carrying eighteen guns, in all forty-eight guns. The Japanese force comprised probably 1,200 men. The Wyoming, unassisted, destroyed one of the batteries, sank two ships, disabled a third and emerged from the conflict with a loss of four men killed and seven wounded.

Ravages of the Black Death.

The beginnings of the black death arose in China about the year 1333 with drought and famine in the great river plains, which were followed by floods so violent that 400,000 people perished. Great telluric convulsions occurred over the same tracts. The mountain Tsincheou fell in and vast clefts were formed, from which it is said that noxious vapors ascended. Anyhow, flood and famine were followed next year by a terrible plague, which carried off 5,000,000 of the wretched Chinese, while in 1337 a still more dreadful famine destroyed another 4,000,000.—All the Year Round.

Mastication.

If your tendency is to gulp down food like porridge and vegetables, quite wet, the obvious remedy is to eat them in a dry state, or else eat with them alternate mouthfuls of dry bread or cracker. A cracker is admirable to induce mastication, for the reason that it compels one to eat slowly. The tendency to moisten the food continually while eating in some artificial way is responsible for much rapid eating and imperfect mastication.

His Business Habits.

Benevolent Gentleman—So you're working, are you? Well, that's right. Do you go home for your luncheon?

Busy Boy—Oh, sometimes I do, but generally I stay downtown for it.

Benevolent Gentleman—And how long have you been employed?

Busy Boy—Since yesterday.—Los Angeles Herald.

Men's Hats In Elizabeth's Time.

The gay young courtiers of the queen—Elizabeth of immortal memory—shone resplendent in high crowned hats of rare device, which, like the brilliant Raleigh, they hung around with strings of pearls. Kingsley describes his Elizabethan adventurer John Oxenham as having on his head "a broad velvet Spanish hat," and Master Frank Leigh as shading his delicate complexion from the sun with "a broad dove colored Spanish hat with feathers to match, looped up over the right ear with a pearl brooch."

But hats or caps were worn according to taste or circumstances, and Scott tells us that when Leicester rode bareheaded at Elizabeth's side on her entry into Kenilworth his esquire had charge of his lordship's black velvet bonnet, garnished with a clasp of diamonds and surmounted by a white plume.—Chambers' Journal.

Cunning Gulls.

An example of the cunning of gulls was observed at Tacoma when several alighted on a bunch of logs that had been in the water for a long time, with the submerged sides thick with barnacles. One was a big gray fellow, who seemed to be the captain. He walked to a particular log, stood on one side of it close to the water and then uttered peculiar cries. The other gulls came and perched on the same side of the log, which under their combined weight rolled over several inches. The gulls, step by step, kept the log rolling until the barnacles showed above the water. The birds picked eagerly at this food, and the log was not abandoned until every barnacle had been picked.

Diamond Cutting.

Not only is diamond cutting not a specially highly paid occupation, but it is one involving a most humiliating system of espionage to the worker. Each man has to strictly account for the stones he receives on going to work in the morning and the count has to be carefully taken when the unfinished work is handed in at night to be locked up in a safe, against the return of the workmen the next day. The possibilities of theft are great, though a dishonest workman knows that an attempt to dispose of an unfinished stone would bring suspicion upon him wherever the attempt was made.

Her First Request.

Greatly excited, the band of rescuers surrounded the missionary whom they had saved from the hands of her kidnapers. Utterly weak and faint, she lay upon a cot, but smiled feebly at her friends.

"Is there anything we can get for you?" asks one.

"Yes," she whispers, "yes. Get me a fashion paper. I haven't seen one for six months."—Judge.

A Cure for Cholera Infantum.

"Last May," says Mrs. Curtis Baker of Bookwalter, Ohio, "an infant child of our neighbor's was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctor had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days' time the child had fully recovered, and is now (nearly a year since) a vigorous, healthy girl. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail in any single instance." For sale by F. Duhring.

A million dollars a month is the estimate made by the Bureau of Statistics of the present value of the market which "frozen Alaska" offers the producers and manufacturers of the United States.

MEETING AN ANACONDA.

Experience of a New York Lawyer In the Amazon Valley.

A New York lawyer, who has traveled a great deal, had an encounter with an anaconda, which he describes as follows:

"I was riding ahead of my party along a narrow road in the Amazon valley. My mount was a large white mule, whose only ambition in life seemed to be to bite and kill every one he encountered. I do not know but what he was a more dangerous quadruped than any of the wild animals in the Matteo grosso. On either side of the road rose the forest. The branches of the trees met here and there overhead, so that the thoroughfare looked more like a verdant tunnel than a country road. Suddenly my mule stopped, dropped his ears and turned his head about. Thinking that this was evidence of a desire on his part to bite my leg, I was about to whip him when I noticed that he was shivering all over in an ague.

"I looked up and down the road, and then I shivered. Not more than sixty feet away a huge snake, half coiled around a bough which projected over the road, lay swinging and looking at me with a glare that was not at all assuring. I had left my rifle behind on a baggage mule and had nothing with which to fight save a hunting knife. I drew this promptly from the scabbard and with the courage worthy of a better cause used it as a spur upon my luckless steed, which turned and galloped for dear life in the opposite direction.

"I reached my party, got the rifle and with my men galloped back to secure the constrictor. The reptile and I must have had the same brand of bravery. He had dropped from the bough and vanished in the recesses of the jungle."—New York Post.

Colors Produced In Iron.

Investigation as to the cause of the production of colors in tempering iron satisfactorily shows it to be due to the formation of thin films of oxide on the surface of the metal when it is heated in the presence of air. It also appears that the oxide so produced is practically transparent, first because the sequence of colors is what would be expected in films of a transparent substance when the thickness of the films gradually increases—also because of observation on the reflected light, the color of which varies somewhat at different angles—but chiefly because it is found that on increasing the temperature a little above the point necessary to produce dark blue the color gradually disappears and the surface, though covered with more oxide, becomes almost colorless again. The colors being the result of oxidation, it is probable that the nature of the surface to be heated, its freedom from any soiling and the length of time during which it is heated must exert a considerable influence on the shade produced.

Only the Truth.

In a town of D., whenever a lecturer can be induced to visit that out of the way place, the audience is, as a rule, kindly disposed. It is said that a chairman, after a depressing address in the local "institute," assured the speaker that his discourse was "moving, soothing and satisfying."

When reproved next morning as having commended a dismal failure he denied the charge and maintained that he had uttered no approbation, but only simple facts—namely, that the lecture was "moving," because a large proportion of the audience fidgeted in their seats and several left the room; it was "soothing" because many fell asleep, and it was "satisfying" because there was not a single person who had not had enough.—London Chronicle.

Patience Among the East Indians.

Every one knows how the Indian can endure and wait. "Why are there so many people at this railway station?" "They are waiting," the official answers, "for tomorrow's train." His patience indeed goes to make that dignity which justifies the saying, "There is no vulgarity in India." He does not strive nor cry, he does not assert himself by speech or dress. He is not anxious to seem other than he is. Quiet and dignified, although he is as one that serveth, he is in some respects greater than many he serves.—Pearson's.

Society For Society.

"I say, coachman, whip up your horse a little faster."

"Impossible. I am a member of the Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals."

Ten minutes later at the journey's end: "Come now, passenger, a little larger pour boire!"

"Impossible. I am a member of the Temperance society."—Paris Figaro.

ARE YOU DEAF?

ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF

DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

BALTIMORE, Md., March 30, 1901.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours, F. A. WERMAN, 730 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.
